Hammarskjold Confident As Talks Continue

New Border Incidents Reported, But Aides Label Them As 'Minor'

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Back in his Beirut headquarters, Dag Hammarskjold headed into conferences with Lebanese leaders today prior to embarking on new moves next week in his Middle East mission for peace.

The U. N. secretary general expressed confidence that "we are on the right road" as he completed four days of talks with Israeli leaders in Jerusalem.

During that time, he announced an Israeli-Egyptian cease-fire agreement. The pledges by the two nations to refrain from hostile acts along their volatile border area represented Hammarskjold's biggest accomplishment in the first two weeks of his mission.

Hammarskjold conferred with Egyptian leaders in Cairo before going to Jerusalem.

He is scheduled to visit Jordan and Syria next week to seek similar pledges between those nations and Israel.

THE JORDAN-Israeli border has been marked by outbreaks this week. An Israeli spokesman said Jordanians slipped inside Israel Thursday night and fired at a military camp in the Judean hills. He said the Israelis fired back.

A shooting incident to the south killed one Israeli soldier and two Jordanian guardsmen the day before, both sides said.

Meanwhile, Egypt charged that Israel had violated the cease-fire by firing on the Egyptian-held Gaza strip and sending a plane over the area yesterday for the third straight day.

Lima Nurse Commended For Her Aid

COLUMBUS (AP)—Two weeks ago today a Lima nurse strode into a welter of snow, rain, mud and blood to help an Amherst man severely injured in a highway crash.

Today Miss Beth Babcock got a letter of personal commendation from Gov. Frank J. Lausche.

The 24-year-old nurse saw the accident on U. S. 25 about a mile south of Findlay, stopped her car and administered first aid to Conrad Zilich, 71, and Mrs. Magdalena Starkey, 61, Miamisburg.

Zilich, in a letter to the governor, called Miss Babcock's action "one of the most unselfish and quick-thinking acts I have ever seen."

Lausche wrote: Dear Miss Babcock: My attention has been called to your noble work as a nurse in departing from your normal course and rendering aid to Mr. Zilich and Mrs. Starkey.

There are so many who, under circumstances of the type which confronted you, would not have stopped to concern themselves about the victims of the accident. Probably motivated by the lessons which you have learned as a nurse and undoubtedly by a voice within yourself, you felt obliged to give aid. You were the Good Samaritan on the highway willing to help someone in distress.

In my official and personal capacities, I pay tribute to you for your worthy conduct.

City Cancer Fund Raising Drive To Be Held Monday 6-7:30 P.M.

Climax of the 1956 fund raising drive for the Cancer Society will be held in Circleville on Monday from 6 to 7:30 p. m.

Mrs. Harry Betz, of 105 Reber Ave., is chairman of the city campaign. She and her workers will be concentrating on local contributions during that hour and a half.

Local headquarters will be open during the following hours next week: Monday, 7-11 p. m.; Tuesday, 7-11 p. m.

Solon Warns Against U.S. Being 'Sucker'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Richards (D-SC) said today the United States should not let itself be "played off for suckers" by countries promoting rival foreign aid offers from this country and Russia.

Richards, chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, and Rep. Vorys (R-Ohio), a senior Republican member, joined in endorsing the theme of a basic decision President Eisenhower is reported to have made for a tougher foreign aid policy.

Eisenhower has yet to communicate the specifics of the new policy to the House committee, which is considering his request for nearly $5 billion in new foreign aid funds next fiscal year.

The aim of Eisenhower's new approach reportedly is to make it harder for Middle Eastern and other nations to get American help if they accept aid from the Communists.

Russian Leaders, British Continue Top-Level Talks

LONDON (AP)—Russia's two traveling leaders set out today for a weekend stay at Prime Minister Eden's country residence and another round of top-level talks on East-West issues.

Soviet Premier Bulganin and Communist boss Nikita Khrushchev, who have agreed to join the British in a search for a Middle East peace plan, were slated to spend the night at Eden's after a tour of the English countryside.

British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd also will be on hand at Chequers, official residence of Britain's prime ministers.

After yesterday's round of talks, the Russian leaders and Eden ordered their experts to submit proposals for a U. N. program designed to avoid war between Arabs and Israelis.

Diplomatic informants said the experts had been ordered to report back by next Tuesday. They added that President Eisenhower would be kept informed of developments.

Ohio Dairymen Await Decision On Price Hike

Boost Of About Cent A Quart To Farmer Said Minimum Goal

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio milk producers, demanding relief from the "price squeeze," are awaiting a decision on their demand for a boost in the federally-set price paid them by distributors.

The requested increase would amount to approximately one cent per quart in the price paid by the ultimate consumer.

Most spokesmen for the producers urged an increase of 50 cents per 100 pounds for Class 1 milk, the kind you buy by the bottle. There are 46 2/3 quarts in 100 pounds.

Most asked for an increase extending through Dec. 31.

But Henry W. Ingersoll of Cleveland, executive-secretary of the associated milk dealers, said such an increase should be for only the months of May, June and July.

One producer spokesman, Earl B. Warner, consultant for the Miami Valley Milk Producers Assn., said the 50-cent increase would mean a similar boost for Class 2 milk. Class 2 milk is used in the making of dairy products like butter and cheese.

THE HEARING was conducted by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. More than 200 farmers, milk handlers and officials attended the affair here yesterday. Milk distributors, mindful of the price they charge consumers, unsuccessfully challenged legality of the hearing.

A deadline of April 24 was set for filing final briefs.

Adlai, Ike To Address Editor Group

WASHINGTON (AP)—A gathering of newspaper editors today awaited a major speech by President Eisenhower. Administration sources said it would provide a "review and a look ahead" at American foreign policy.

But before Eisenhower's address tonight, members of the American Society of Newspaper Editors arranged to listen to a luncheon talk by Adlai Stevenson, who is seeking the Democratic presidential nomination.

The setting for Eisenhower's speech will be a dinner ending a three-day convention of some 400 editors from around the nation. The speech will be broadcast at 10 p. m. by all major radio networks. The CBS television network also will carry it.

Yesterday, Rep. Moss (R-Calif.) said congressional hearings have shown "there is ample justification for the complaints of newsmen" that the government has tried to clamp down on many types of legitimate information.

The society's own freedom of information committee filed recommendations for changes in 15 laws and regulations and government policies which it said hamper the free flow of news. It urged:

1. That judges permit the use of cameras in court rooms during trials.
2. That congressional committees open more of their sessions to the public.
3. That major political parties adopt policies for the election campaign "that will assure public access to the views and opinions and policies of the candidates by all appropriate means, including the holding of regular scheduled press conferences."

Excellent Service, But None Ordered

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Mrs. H. D. Wright is wondering who next will knock on her front door.

First there was a plumber who said he was called to repair a bathroom fixture. There was nothing wrong in bathroom.

Next came a florist delivering man with $5 worth of roses, collect; a termite specialist; a drug store deliveryman with four gallons of ice cream, also collect, and a television repairman.

Mrs. Wright said she didn't call any of them.

Margaret's Marriage Set For Today

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP)—Harry S. Truman's daughter Margaret, as happy a young woman as ever lost her heart to a man, gets married today.

The blonde-haired girl who grew to young womanhood in the White House and Clifton Daniel Jr., the handsome foreign correspondent who wooed and won her in a whirlwind romance, exchange vows in little Trinity Episcopal Church here.

After a brief reception in the big, white-framed Truman home at 219 N. Delaware St., they will fly off to Nassau, the Bahamas, for a honeymoon of two weeks.

And her father, the former President, can relax from the ordeal that every father of a bride can understand.

"I am happy because Margaret is happy," he said. "The more I see of Margaret's young man the better I like him."

Daniel, 43, assistant foreign news editor of the New York Times, and the 32-year-old Radio-TV actress-singer pursued their arm-in-arm courtship about Independence while Truman's neighbors looked on approvingly but with a minimum of hubbub.

Wedding day dawned with premarital events moving like clockwork on the quiet and simple pattern upon which mother, father and daughter agreed.

It was at Trinity Episcopal Church that Truman, a life-long Baptist, married Bess Wallace 37 years ago.

Margaret, when she goes down the aisle with her father, will carry a prayer book given her by grandmother Wallace when she was confirmed in 1940.

Woman Wins Fight For Green Shingles

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Mrs. Roy Moise has won the battle of the green shingles.

Her husband recently decided to spruce up their frame store and apartment and Mrs. Moise decided she wanted the color to be Chesapeake green.

St. Louis City Art Commission had to be consulted because the building was near a park. The commissioners said no green, use white instead.

Mrs. Moise was more persistent than the commission, the commission gave up yesterday a month after the dispute started.

Cop Gives Up Job Keeping Kids Quiet

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP)—Some 400 children last night upset a juvenile program designed to create respect for law enforcement.

The kids went to police headquarters for a scheduled lecture by Edward C. Burke, assistant chief of detectives, but became restless and finally so noisy Burke cut short his talk. The series will not be resumed until larger quarters are available.

U. S. Says Soviet Gripe 'Baseless'

Russians Protest H-Bomb Tests Threaten Life In Pacific Area

WASHINGTON (AP)—Russia's protest against upcoming American H-bomb tests in the Pacific appears certain to be rejected after United States officials have completed their study of it.

Authorities said today that the protest is both old and baseless. They said the issue which it raises has previously been thrashed out in the United Nations Trusteeship Council with Russia getting no support. Russia then withdrew the resolution it had offered.

The note was delivered Wednesday, but not until after the Moscow radio announced the action yesterday did it come to the attention of top officials. They finally ran it down, after about two hours of checking, in the translation division where it had been put into English.

The press office did not know exactly what had happened but surmised the note was brought in by a Soviet messenger, handed to a receptionist or other functionary and handled as if it were a routine diplomatic inquiry.

THE NEW NOTE, like Russia's previous complaint before the U. N., contended that the projected test explosions "threaten the life and well being of the population of the (Pacific island) trusteeship territory as well as the population of a number of states in the Pacific Ocean area."

The American plan was attacked as "incompatible with the aims and principles of the international trusteeship system" under the U. N. Charter.

The protest was regarded as a Soviet bid for good will among peoples over the world, notably in India and Japan, where atomic explosions are deplored at any time and under any circumstances.

Russia could not protest the America project directly because it has set off many test explosions of its own in Siberia.

Science Students Win Scholarships

CINCINNATI (AP)—Students from town won most of the 12 scholarships in the finals of the first southwest Ohio college scholarship competition for science pupils yesterday.

The scholarships offered, all for the University of Cincinnati, included awards of $2,000 for first prize, $1,000 for second and $500 for third.

Middletown high school students won first in engineering and third in chemistry. Hamilton took second in physics.

James F. Waits of New Vienna was third in engineering.

Four firms contributed to the scholarships — General Electric Co., National Cash Register Co., Armco Steel Corp. and Procter & Gamble Co.

Fourth Coal Miner Object Of Search

SUNNYSIDE, Utah (AP)—Rescue crews, already successful in freeing three coal miners trapped by a cave-in, dug deeper today for a fourth man still missing.

Still entombed somewhere three miles inside the dark mountain tunnel is Joseph Otterstrom, 58, crew foreman from Sunnyside.

Workers clearing the rubble of the cave-in have heard nothing from Otterstrom since the roof of the mine collapsed at 1:40 p. m. Wednesday. Kaiser Coal Co. operates the mine, 125 miles southeast of Salt Lake City.

Churches OK Judge

CLEVELAND (AP)—Municipal Judge Perry B. Jackson has been elected president of the Cleveland Church Federation. He is the first Negro ever to hold the post.

But some other party members attending the rally, which winds up tonight with a $100-a-plate Woodrow Wilson dinner, made it clear they believe Stevenson is fighting for his political life in the last of the big primary tests before the convention.

Monroe Sweetland, Oregon national committeeman, said party and other polls give conflicting figures on the popularity of the two candidates. He said he regards the outcome as a toss-up with the results likely to affect those in other primary states.

Jacob M. Arvey, Illinois national committeeman and a winter resident of Florida, said that as far as he can learn the two candidates are running even for the May 29 Florida primary. At stake in Florida are 28 presidential nominating votes.

Arvey, a strong supporter of Stevenson, said he thinks the outcome will be determined by the voters' reaction to the candidates' stand on racial integration.

PUCO Orders End To 'Quiet' Toll Increases

Ruling Will Reduce Rates On 'Long Distance' In County

The Ohio Public Utilities Commission late Friday revealed that Pickaway County apparently has won a clear-cut victory in its long fight against "booby trap" rate hikes on long distance phone calls made within the district.

Despite the fact that the ruling affects all of Ohio's independent phone firms, the PUCO announcement was quiet and relatively brief. As a result of the ruling some rate reductions are anticipated in Pickaway County.

The PUCO ordered the state's independent telephone companies to file rates for long distance calls between any two points serviced by the same company. And a commission spokesman said the action, in effect, orders the independents to abandon the practice of concurring with toll tariffs established by Ohio Bell Telephone Company and the Cincinnati and Suburban Telephone Company.

It was the long awaited PUCO action in response to an attack led by Pickaway County Prosecutor William Ammer last year. Ammer took up the fight when it was learned, through a phone call made by Mayor Bill Johnson of Williamsport, that the Ohio Consolidated Telephone Company had boosted rates on long distance calls inside the county without advance notice to or hearings for the patrons.

INVESTIGATION soon disclosed that all of Ohio's independent phone companies had the privilege of raising their rates in this manner whenever an increase in long distance tolls was granted Ohio Bell. The privilege, Ammer revealed, was based on a tariff provision which had been on the books — without general public knowledge — "for so many years that nobody seems very sure when it was put there."

A spokesman for the PUCO admitted privately at the time that members of the agency themselves had been unaware of the full significance of the provision upon it. Ammer challenged legality of any increases granted Ohio Consolidated, on long distance calls made entirely within the county on that company's lines, unless the subscribers were given advance notice and an opportunity to voice their views at public hearings.

Ammer appeared in behalf of Pickaway County subscribers at subsequent hearings.

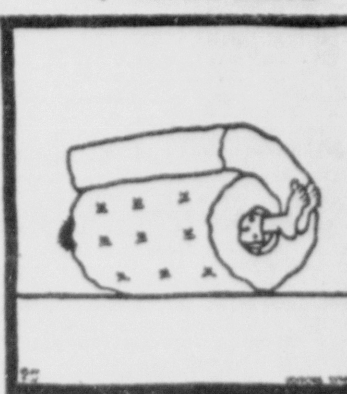

No comment was issued here, meanwhile, by the phone utility.

Told Friday of the PUCO ruling, local phone company manager Ed Jury said he had yet to receive official word of the action. He also explained that no

"MAN AFTER SLEEPING LIKE A TOP"

If you want to sleep peacefully and not spin around like the man pictured above you must learn to relax completely when you hit the sack. Total relaxation, that's the secret. As soon as you get into bed let yourself go limp all over. Then concentrate on telling each part of your body to relax and go to sleep. Start out by telling the toes and fingers and arms and legs to go to sleep. They're easy. Of course you'll find it tougher when you try to talk to the kidneys, the ribs, the spine, the liver and the onions. But if you holler and scream at them long enough they'll eventually doze off. However, I doubt if you will with all that racket going on.

comment here has yet been authorized on the subject.

Ammer, reached here in late afternoon, said he had reason to believe the ruling had been issued in Columbus. However, despite his key role in the case, he had yet to be given details of the decision until he heard them from The Herald.

On the basis of all available information received here thus far, illegality of the tariff provision hit by Ammer has been conceded.

IT MEANS, he said, that Ohio Consolidated will be forced to lower its rates on long distance calls inside the county to the level prior to the Ohio Bell increase last year. The reduction in Pickaway County, Ammer estimated, may be about 30 percent. Rates charges on local calls were not involved in the case.

The reduction can be expected, Ammer said, on such calls as those between Circleville, Ashville, Williamsport, and similar district points. In some western areas of the county, the prosecutor explained, facilities of Ohio Bell are used on long distance calls, and for this reason the present rates will remain unchanged when those services are used.

No change was ordered except on long distance calls made entirely within an independent's own organization.

Although the PUCO ruling, in effect, would seem to admit that higher rates had been charged for many years all over the state illegally, Ammer said that the independent phone firms were authorized to take advantage of the "quiet" increases under the little-known tariff provision on the books.

The unexpected rate hike by Ohio Consolidated came to light when Mayor Johnson made a phone call from Circleville to his home in Williamsport. Surprised by the increase in tolls without public notice here, Johnson wrote to Robert Moulton, chairman of the PUCO, for an explanation.

A short time later, while awaiting a reply, Johnson went personally to the Columbus offices of the PUCO and was given to understand that he had given the commission "a hot potato." The commission, he was told at that time, was "searching for the answer."

MOULTON finally replied to Johnson's letter and admitted that the tariff provision in question seemed to need clarification. The PUCO later called upon the state's independent phone firms to "show cause" why it should not be revised, and the Friday ruling was the follow-through on hearings held in Columbus.

Johnson turned Moulton's letter over to Ammer who, in turn, filed formal protest with the PUCO. Other communities joined Ammer in his fight.

Under the ruling announced Friday, the independents were ordered to act on the rate order within 30 days.

2 Circleville Girls Eliminated In OSU May Queen Contest

Two Circleville girls who were in the running as candidates for May Queen at Ohio State University have been eliminated in the semi-finals.

Martha Ann Pile and Nancy Hughes had been in a group of 20 girls prior to Friday night. The group has now been trimmed down to 10.

Laurelville Coach Reinstated In Job On 'Trial Basis'

One of three faculty members at Laurelville High School whose contracts were not renewed has been reinstated on a "trial basis".

The West Hocking Board of Education has given David L. Rinehart, a teacher and coach, a one-year contract at a reported salary of $3,900 a year. The board indicated that if Rinehart's work was "satisfactory" it would offer him a longer contract.

The board has refused to renew the contracts of Rinehart, Laurelville School Superintendent S. O. Liming and fifth grade teacher, Mrs. Kathleen Ogile. The board gave "lack of disciplinary control of students" as the reason.

Two petitions asking for the reinstatement of Rinehart were admittedly received by J. F. McCrady, clerk of the school board.

VFW Official Set To Install Local Officers

Timothy J. Murphy, national commander-in-chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, will install new local officers at a special ceremony next Tuesday. The installation is scheduled for 8:30 p. m. in the new Veterans Memorial Building in downtown Columbus.

A banquet will precede the installation, with a dance to follow the ceremony. Virgil Timmons, district commander, obtained Murphy for the installation.

New officers for Henry Page Folsom Jr., Post 3331 of Circleville are:

All of the new officers are from Circleville with the exception of Timmons, who is from Kingston, and Watts, who resides in Williamsport.

Cost Of Heroism Found Too High

SALEM, Mass. (AP)—Henry C. MacNeil, 23, has learned it cost him $36.70 in hospital bills to be a hero. He swam 500 yards through cold water last week to rescue Fred Page, 12, who was drifting out to sea in a boat.

Thoroughly chilled, he was held overnight at Salem hospital for observation. MacNeil, a student, says he doesn't have the $36.70, and doesn't know where he can get it. He does odd jobs to support his wife and small child.

New York Relaxes Drunkeness Law

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—From now on, bartenders in New York can't refuse to serve alcoholic beverages to persons they consider "apparently" intoxicated.

Gov. Averell Harriman signed a bill today specifying that a patron must be deemed "actually and apparently" drunk before a drink may be denied.

The old law permitted bartenders to refuse service if the customer was "actually or apparently" intoxicated.

Ohio Statehouse Slated For Cleanup

COLUMBUS (AP)—A contract has been awarded for exterior cleaning of Ohio's capitol and annex—the first such cleaning since 1934.

Public Works Director Zoyd M. Flaler announced the contract had been awarded the Mid-Air Construction Co. of Akron, on its bid of $43,740.

The company will use a wet sandblasting process in cleaning the building, and also will point up the stone and make other minor exterior repairs.

Letter To The Editor

The Circleville Herald encourages letters to the editor on pertinent subjects of local interest. However, unsigned letters will be disregarded. Non-plume will be used if requested.

EDITOR, THE HERALD:

Consideration should be given to the women of the city of Circleville who spend or direct the spending of at least 80 percent of every income dollar of the community.

Women do not want anyone hurt, and we believe the proposed shopping center is Circleville's most progressive move made in the last half-century.

We do not intend to sell our property, nor do we believe a shopping center will hurt its value.

Help hold business in a concentrated area, instead of in widely separated and inconvenient sections, for the benefit of the community.

We do not want, nor are we satisfied with Circleville today being the same as it was 50 years ago. Why can't we be progressive, and considerate of all people instead of a select few? Especially when the direct property owners are in favor.

I believe that this is a move in which the city officials and all business men should be vitally interested.

We cannot understand why there should be such a move to stand in the way of a better Circleville, and why such a delay in our officials in making a decision which is so apparent to the majority of the people of the community. As well as the direct property owners.

Let's hear from some more of our property owners.

Independent Drives In Fayette County Receive Setbacks

Two independent fund raising campaigns in Fayette County have met with setbacks, while at least one drive is Pickaway County has bettered its last year's mark.

The Fayette County Easter Seal Campaign has fallen more than $800 below its intended goal of $2,000. Preliminary reports from Pickaway County indicate the Easter Seal drive here has gone over its 1935 total.

Fayette County is not only having trouble with the Easter Seal campaign but also with the Red Cross Drive. A report made at the group's latest meeting showed only $3,014 had been raised towards the goal of $10,200.

This year in Pickaway County, the Red Cross campaign joined in the Community Fund.

BRING A FRIEND TO CHURCH WITH YOU

THE MUSICAL Hostetler family, above, will be a feature of the program for a series of revival meetings that start next week in the Pilgrim Holiness Church on Hayward Ave. The meetings will open Sunday evening at 7:30. The evangelistic party, the Hostetler family from Elida, O., will join the services Tuesday night and continue as part of the revival until May 6.

Methodist Sermon To Center Around Statement Of Christ

In the duplicate worship services at First Methodist Church at 8:15 and 10:45 Sunday morning, the minister, the Rev. Charles D. Reed, will use for his sermon subject "There is No Other Way."

The subject is taken from one of the sayings of Christ as contained in the fourteenth chapter of the Gospel According to St. John, where Christ states, "I am the Way, the truth, and the Life."

This will be the first of three sermons based upon this statement of Christ.

The junior choir, under the direction of Mrs. James Hodges, will sing the negro spiritual, "Steal Away to Jesus." The adult choir, under the direction of Mrs. Harold Defenbaugh, will sing, "Great is Thy Love," by Bohm, with Gordon Fraser as the soloist in the 10:45 service. Mrs. Ervin Leist will be at the organ in both services.

Hymns for the duplicate services will include "Joyful, Joyful, We Adore Thee," by Henry Van Dyke, and "Our Parting Hymn of Praise," by John Ellerton.

The junior, intermediate and senior youth fellowship will meet at the church at 5:30 p. m.

'Wine Is A Mocker' Sermon Topic For Church Of Christ

"Wine Is A Mocker" is announced as the sermon topic for the Church of Christ meeting Sunday at 132 Griner Ave.

The subject of this lesson is taken from the statement of the wise man Solomon, "Wine is a mocker, strong drink is raging; and whosoever is deceived thereby is not wise" (Prov. 20:1).

The same wise man said, "Who hath woe, who hath sorrow, who hath contentions, who hath complaining, who hath wounds without cause, who hath redness of eyes?"

They that tarry long at the wine, they that go to seek out mixed wine. Look not thou upon the wine when it is red, when it sparkleth in the cup, when it goeth down smoothly: at the last it biteth like a serpent, and stingeth like an adder" (Prov. 23:32).

"These truths have been indelibly imbedded into the hearts of many of God's creation down through the centuries to their extreme sorrow and grief," points out evangelist Charles Cochran.

"One of the greatest tasks of modern day lawmakers and law enforcers is to deal with the evils and crimes caused by drinking and drunkenness. Multiplied millions of dollars are spent each year for alcoholic beverages. Multiplied billions of dollars are spent each year to correct the damage caused by their use! This might well be termed the 'national shame' of America.

"The picture would not be complete without a look at the awful slaughter on the highways, the orphaned children, weeping wives and mothers, the grief stricken husbands and fathers—all caused by the craze for strong drink! How foolish is the individual who tampers with beverage alcohol. And how foolish the government that legalizes it for revenue, and then spends annually ten times the amount of the revenue to care for its diabolical results in crime and disease!"

Historical Series Sermons Continue For Presbyterians

The third in a series of four historical sermons will be presented at the Presbyterian Church in the 10:30 a. m. worship hour Sunday, in observance of the 25th Anniversary of the founding of the first Presbytery in America in 1706 at Philadelphia. The general theme is "America's Presbyterian Heritage."

The third sermon is on "Freedom." In this, the famous trial of Dr. Francis Makemie marked the sounding board of freedom from the oppressions of the old monarchial systems of government, which involved persecutions of Presbyterians both in the "mother" country and on these shores.

The choir will sing the anthem, "Lord, for Thy Tender Mercies' Sake," Mrs. Clark Will directing. Miss Jo Anne Brink will sing the soprano solo part.

Mrs. Theodore L. Huston will play: "Prelude in D Major," "Ereotie," by Grigg, and Mendelssohn's "O Great Is The Depth".

The committee on history will meet after worship in the Missionary Room, with Milton Patterson as chairman. During the Sunday school hour at 9:30 a. m., Bible film strips will be shown for the primary and kindergarten departments.

'What Is That "Old Time Religion"?'

How far back do we want to go to arrive at what the famous Negro spiritual refers to as "that old time religion?"

We in the Episcopal Church believe that the place to start is not at the Reformation or at any other intermediate spot in Christianity's almost 2,000 year history. The place to begin is at the religion of the primitive church as laid down by our Lord, His Apostles and the early Church Fathers.

The Apostles' Creed refers to it as "The Holy Catholic Church"—the original Christian Church, united, undivided, with a single faith, a single practice.

As we study church history, it seems to us that the Episcopal Church and its nationally independent associates in the world-wide communion of Anglicans (whose faith and practice stem from the very ancient Church of England) have retained closest allegiance to the faith and practice of the early church.

We hold that everything necessary to salvation is to be found in Holy Scripture, and that the Church was founded by our Lord. We also hold that the Church compiled the Holy Bible as a living record of God's will for us, and that our worship of God should be done with beauty and with the congregation actively taking part. Visit the Episcopal Church near you at your earliest opportunity. A warm welcome awaits you.

Light beyond the shadows

People who see the Light that shines beyond the present shadows can walk safely along the way of life. Those who stumble in darkness and fear are the people who lack the vision of faith.

A man named Saul of Tarsus groped in the darkness of the pagan world. His heart was filled with hate and he saw them stone the servants of God. Then he saw the Light and became a new man.

The skies of life are often filled with clouds and storm. Strife and hatred, selfishness and meanness, suffering and despair, rob the day of its brightness and fill the world with woe.

But those who have the penetrating vision of faith need fear no harm. If they keep their eyes fixed on the Light that lies beyond the shadows and trust in God, they may walk in the perfect security of faith.

The blackness of night cannot quench the Light of faith; the sweeping storms of adversity cannot blot it out. It shines on undimmed into the perfect day, when the storms depart and the shadows fade away.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

OIL TO IRRIGATE DESERT
THE NEWLY-dedicated Tigris River dam and reservoir project in Iraq should prove of tremendous benefit to the Middle East in coming years. It will provide water to irrigate 14 million acres of Iraq land that now is desert. Already it is raising the living standards of 80 per cent of the Iraqi people.

Not only will this benefit the country of the Tigris and Uprates River Valley, but by example will benefit other Arab nations, too. This, in turn, should be of value to the free world.

The regime of Iraqi King Feisal has taken an enlightened lead in using 70 per cent of the country's oil royalties to improve the lot of his people. This is far different from Saudi Arabia's King Saud's squandering of his oil money on high-priced automobiles, palaces and harems.

If the Iraq dam does the great things predicted of it in raising the living standards of the Iraq people, then surely other Arab nations will see the gains that will come to them by developing their resources as free nations outside the Soviet orbit.

MORE RAIN PREDICTED
FOLLOWING a national study of ground water levels in the United States, the Geological Survey of the Department of the Interior has found that the levels are generally below average in the South, Southwest and the Midcontinent regions. But only in the Far West and the Southwest is there a real and continuing decline.

In other areas ground water levels are periodically brought back to normal in wet cycles. The ground water decline thus is not a permanent factor to face but an incident of a drought cycle.

Such areas as Southern California, Arizona and New Mexico are up against the real problem of lower levels of pumpable water. Their best hope of a solution lies in river management.

A long range forecast by a weather scientist of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology is encouraging. He says weather moves in cycles, not of a few years but of several generations. The U. S. has been in a warm, dry cycle for half a century. The remainder of this century, he predicts, will be cooler and moister.

H-BOMB LIMITS
ATOMIC Energy Commissioner Thomas E. Murray has proposed a ban on tests of city-wrecking H-bombs. Instead, he contends, the U. S. should be stockpiling a wide range of small nuclear weapons for use in a limited nuclear war.

Commissioner Murray feels the United States should go ahead with such a plan without waiting for Russia.

The commissioner may feel that someone has to take the decisive step toward disarmament some time. He may feel that any calculated risk would be worth it if the possible result could be an end to the suicidal nuclear weapons race.

But Senator George of Georgia wisely comments that he doesn't think now is the time for one-sided disarmament.

The Murray suggestion may bring huzzas from the communists. But unless these are accompanied by similar offers, the proposal had better be discarded.

The United States is always expected by the bleeding hearts to give the concrete evidences of its good faith. It is time some such examples came from the other side.

DEW AND MOONSHINE
DISPATCHES from Canada's Far North where the United States is building the Distant Early Warning (DEW) line tell of occasionally encountering a resentment of the project as infringing on Canadian sovereignty. Apparently life under the northern lights inspires flights of fancy.

A more substantial Canadian question about the DEW line is whether it is really needed. It is based on the supposition that in five years or less Russia may have an intercontinental ballistic missile, rendering obsolete the mere bomber. But if Americans sat back with folded hands to await the unsavory missile some knavish Russian could decide the time was ideal for sending over a block of bombers.

On the whole, the DEW line is a gadget Canadians and Americans alike can be thankful for.

George E. Sokolsky's
These Days

Everybody but a misogynist adores the romance of youth, is intrigued by the searching shenanigans of the middle-aged and is startled by June and December associations particularly when they are allied to diamonds and mink.

What stirred such excitement over the Kelly-Grimaldi marriage is not so easy to discover because it fits no particular category. Nevertheless, it did stir the imagination and one journalist wrote of Grace Kelly outranking her mother which is quite impossible because in the United States no one outranks anyone else and in moral law, no child ever outranks a parent.

It would seem that as photographers lost cameras and guests lost jewels, some reporters lost their sense of proportion. Some extreme statements were made by those who felt impelled to treat a sacrament as though it were an opening night in Hollywood.

I am not a little surprised that Prince Rainier III was irate and issued orders against the photographers whose lust for pictures created traffic jams where there was no traffic. The reports generally blamed the French photographers for misconduct but the fellow who told Grace that he was being treated like a bum have been an American.

The theft of Mrs. McCloskey's jewels was bad enough, although they were, it is reported, insured and therefore the Prince is under no obligation to make good. The McCloskeys are Irish from Philadelphia and Democrats and of the people, for the people and by the people, which is the symbol of current democracy, particularly in Philadelphia which having long lived under Republican corruption is now Democratic and no different from what it was before.

Too bad about the jewelry but thus far no mink coats have been reported stolen, but maybe I am a little premature as I was about Farouk staying away. The correspondents, we are told, stole views of hand-squeezing and such by means of binoculars and telescopes.

Up on my farm in Massachusetts, which is about 10 acres smaller than the entire free state of Monaco, it would not be possible to view from the distance any such goings-on because of the trees, which are so thick the State Forester advises thinning them out and earning a buck thereby. Rainier might consider tree planting as a way of life. Also, it is said, that the wedding cost something like $600,000 which is a pretty high price to pay for such an enterprise.

And now that everybody is married that ought to be and the guests are departing for their various destinations, it is somewhat puzzling why Farouk, at the last moment, decided to come. He was invited, but why, no one could say. Farouk takes up too much space in an already overcrowded world.

Certainly, he is too big for Monaco, where everything must be done to scale, Monaco being even smaller than San Marino. But what about Lichtenstein? How small is that free and independent state which is now becoming important as a tax evasion center for corporations that engage in raiding American companies?

This is done in combination with Swiss banks which keep their accounts by numbers and refuse to tell who owns the numbers. Therefore, it is a good way to cover up hot money if you have any. Monaco is also in that business and I understand that firms of this kind that used to operate out of Tangier are now planning to move to Monaco.

If Rainier soaks such firms 10 percent on their gross, he can tell the gambling house to move to Greece. It might also be a good business for Cyprus.

There are about 11 countries that engage in this kind of operation, including Canada, and it is good to know about it because somebody needs to know how to handle things and apparently these uncommercial, anti-materialistic people do and they make profits thereby.

Well, it was a great gala and a good time was had by all and now that it is all over, we can return to our wars and politics and all the absurdities with which we regale ourselves when there is nothing more important like a medieval wedding or a tenor's inability to get rid of fat.

Chinese reds recently celebrated their new year but seem to have missed the opportunity to make the right sort of resolutions.

It is sad, but true, that fear of being found out has more to do with people's conduct than their scruples.

Income tax officials insist that what they are trying to do is establish taxation without misrepresentation.

Passport to Happiness
By MAYSIE GREIG

SYNOPSIS
Mrs. May Featherstone, wealthy English dowager, recognizes a passerby and senses trouble as she boards the "S.S. Caribbean," bound from England to Jamaica. Valerie Allison, a pretty, red-haired nurse, and Dirk Hanson, who was engaged to Mrs. Featherstone's daughter, Ellen, at the time of her death in an auto accident, accompany her.

CHAPTER 2
DOCTOR MANGIN fidgeted with his eyeglasses. "Well, as I told you, it wasn't at all satisfactory. The young man's father had once been a second gardener on the estate and had since bought a market garden of his own. The son had done very well for himself. He had worked his way up through scholarships and had taken a medical degree, but Mrs. Featherstone could never forget that his father had," he coughed slightly, "worked on the estate. I don't know where the young man is at present, but you must understand, Nurse, just how Mrs. Featherstone felt."

"I'm afraid I can't," Val had said. There was a dangerous note in her voice.

He gave her a sharp glance. "Oh, well," he shrugged, "country families feel like that."

The S. S. Caribbean had left the dock and was sailing slowly down Southampton Water. They were slipping quietly away from England, from the trees and houses and lawns on the shores, and Val was aware of a sharp surge of homesickness, a gritty feeling at the backs of her eyes. She was leaving her brother behind, and everyone and everything she'd known all her life. What lay ahead of her and why had she applied for this job in Jamaica? She could only put it down to a curious urge of restlessness that had come over her during the past year.

No Easy Job

Would working in a new environment cure her restlessness? Being a night sister is not an easy job, but she had chosen it deliberately so that she would have more freedom during the day, a chance to explore the lovely tropical island, to play tennis, bathe, laze on the golden sands with other young people of her age.

Val moved over to the window. There was the soft greenness of the Isle of Wight, with its hills and fields and small clustered towns. She turned impulsively toward her employer.

"Wouldn't you like to come on deck, Mrs. Featherstone? The sun is shining and it's really lovely now!"

But at the suggestion, the thickest woman with the tightly curled gray hair shrank back.

"No, no!" she cried sharply. "I'm not going on deck. I'm not going out of this cabin until we arrive in Jamaica!"

Val stared at her in dismay. Why should any normal woman want to stay in her cabin for ten whole days? Had it been some mental derangement at which Dr. Mangin had hinted? She was glad Dirk Hanson was along.

A Great Influence

Already she had seen enough to know that he had a great influence over his Aunt May as he called her, a courtesy title since the only tie between them was that he had been engaged to her dead daughter. Obviously Mrs. Featherstone doted on him; but last night she had asked herself why a young man in the middle twenties should seem so devoted to her.

Val had gathered, too, that it was Dirk's friends with whom Mrs. Featherstone was to stay in Jamaica. He had arranged the visit because, as he'd told her, he was going out to the West Indies to write a book on native folklore and transcribe the words and music of the lesser-known Calypso songs. She had asked him if he'd written any other books.

"Written but not published," he'd replied, his gray eyes twinkling. "Maybe I'm no literary genius, but writing about the folklore of other countries interests me."

"Yes," she agreed. "It must be an interesting hobby. But what else do you do? I mean," she stammered slightly, "haven't you a serious job?"

He looked slightly taken aback. "Blest if I know what is a serious job," he rumbled. "Dad's pretty senile—he was over fifty when I was born. Our own place isn't much, but still there's quite a lot to do, bookkeeping, answering letters, keeping the house and the cottages repaired. We market our vegetables, too, and that pays the gardener's wages. I help him when I have time."

Val remembered the contemptuous way in which Dr. Mangin had spoken of the other young man in whom Eileen Featherstone had been interested. "No family to speak of, father a market gardener," he'd said. But apparently, if you were in line for the title, you could sell vegetables without losing caste.

Dirk was smiling. "I ask you, what else should I do? Buy a seat on the Stock Exchange or go out to the Antipodes and build bridges?"

"I'm sorry," she flushed attractively. "I see I've spoken out of turn."

He ran a hand up through his light brown hair. "I also have to help Cousin Timothy, the present Viscount at Stormhurst Manor, too. He's older than Dad and even more decrepit. It's a huge place, practically an impossible place to run with no staff to speak of, but it's— He hesitated. "It's a lovely place, a truly lovely place."

"But if your cousin can't afford to keep the place up, why doesn't he sell it?"

A Show Place

"Sell it? Sell Stormhurst Manor?" He looked at her in amazement. "My dear girl, he'd allow himself to be drawn and quartered first. It's one of the show places of England."

"Mustn't we all be practical in this day and age?" she asked quietly, remembering the struggle she'd had after her father died, the struggle Tom was having now.

"I'd rather die than be practical in the way you mean. Stormhurst Manor, built in the reign of Henry the Eighth, is important, not only to my cousin, my Dad, and myself, but to England. It's a tradition, an echo of the past. It's the foundation on which the present England has been built, on which the future must be built. We are a small island kingdom and if we don't live true to our best and oldest traditions, we're sunk. Places like Stormhurst Manor must be kept up at whatever cost." He repeated it slowly, "At whatever cost."

Flea Bites Are No Joke

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

KEEP your dog and cat free of fleas for self-protection.

While fleas are generally mentioned in a jocular fashion, they are no joke to dogs and cats. And they are not the least bit funny when they begin biting humans, either.

A flea is a small brown wingless insect, about 1/8 of an inch long. It has long hind legs and is very flat from side to side. The life span is a few weeks to a few months.

Vacation Land

Sunny California, that famed vacation land, generally is conceded to have more fleas than any other state.

These insects are likely to be most troublesome in houses, especially basements, where there are dogs or cats. They may slip into your clothing or jump around when they are disturbed.

Usually they attack your waist or legs, injecting into your skin a fluid secreted from their salivary glands. Some persons apparently are hypersensitive to this secretion and are bothered by flea bites more than others.

More serious than the bite itself, however, is the fact that fleas can transmit bacterial diseases. The rat flea, for example, transmits plague and possibly typhus and tularemia.

Insecticides such as DDT provide the best means of controlling the flea problem. You don't have to spray them directly on your pet dog or cat. But spray them into their kennels or favorite sleeping spots.

Just one spraying every two months should keep them free from fleas.

You can also spray your overstuffed chairs, carpets and floors to prevent the fleas from seeking refuge there.

As for repellents, you can try Army 612, pyrethrum, oil of especially basements, where there are dogs or cats. They may slip into your clothing or jump around when they are disturbed.

Professor Hodgkin Judges Art League's Spring Show

H. E. Montelius Given Silver Trophy

Marsten D. Hodgkin, professor at Miami University in Oxford, judged the Spring Art Exhibit, Friday afternoon.

The show, conducted by the Circleville Art League, is being held today and Sunday in the court house.

A silver trophy, given for the best painting in the show, was awarded by Professor Hodgkin to Harry E. Montelius for his painting, "Fun After School."

The first award in oils was given to V. Faunce Kuhns for her painting of "The Life." Second and third were awarded to Ruth E. Montelius for painting, "Early Signs of Spring," and Mrs. Kenneth Luna for "Has Beens," respectively.

Harry E. Montelius won first in watercolors for painting, "Dubois Home." Second was awarded to Roy Wood for painting, "New England Scene." Gertrude Robinson's painting, "There Is No Death," won third prize.

In the miscellaneous paintings, first was awarded to V. Faunce Kuhns for "Lynda." Respectively winning second and third were: Mrs. Kenneth Luna, "Stilllife," and Laura Hutzelman, "Floral Prints."

Members of the Junior Art League also entered paintings in the exhibit. Professor Hodgkin awarded first prize to Lynn Reichelderfer. Second and third were given to Winship Story and Paula K. Denham, respectively.

Following the judging, the Art League feted Professor and Mrs. Hodgkin at a dinner.

Pickens Couple Note Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Grover C. Pickens of Columbus marked their golden wedding anniversary at a dinner.

The dinner was held in their honor in the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Tuttle of Columbus.

Mr. and Mrs. Pickens were married in Circleville, April 12, 1906, at the Methodist church, with the Rev. Mr. Brokaw officiating. They have been residents of Columbus and have been in the grocery business for the past 25 years.

They have one other daughter, Mrs. Ernest Heller and three grandchildren.

In Memoriam

IN MEMORIAM
In loving memory of our husband and father, Lloyd O. Ott, who passed away April 22, 1935.
He is gone but not forgotten.
Think of him still as the same, and say He is not dead, he is just away.
Sadly missed by widow and children.

CHS Wins 2nd SCOL Ball Game By Edging Out Greenfield 3 To 2

Circleville's Tigers maintained their lead in the South Central Ohio League by squeaking past Greenfield 3 to 2 Friday. The game was played on the Greenfield diamond.

A single by shortstop Bobby Wellington in the top of the seventh drove home left fielder Everett Cunningham with the winning run. Cunningham scored on a short single and had to bowl over Greenfield catcher Jim Knowles to do it.

The victory gives CHS a 2-0 record in SCOL competition. They have lost two non-league games, both to Chillicothe.

Circleville played without two of its regulars. Catcher Ralph Jones was attending a Hi-Y convention in Columbus and Roger McConnell took his place. Bobby Callahan, the regular left fielder, was not in school Friday and was replaced by Cunningham.

St. Louis Still Singing About Home Run Blues

Cardinals May Chalk Another Record For Allowing Big Blows

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
It's a new season, all right, but the St. Louis Cardinals' pitching staff is still staggering around with a homer hangover.

The Redbirds were clipped for 185 home runs last season, a major league record. Now it looks like the mark may not last the year.

In three games, St. Louis pitching has been pickled for eight homers, including the only grand slam so far in either league (by Cincinnati's Ray Jablonski, the ex-Card. Three of them came Friday night to overhaul an early St. Louis lead and get Milwaukee started on a 5-4 decision that left the Braves unbeaten atop the National League.

Eddie Mathews smacked a pair his first of the season, and Wes Covington poked the other, with a man on base, in a pinch-rod as Milwaukee went 3-0 for the season. Right behind are Brooklyn, which shelled Pittsburgh 5-0 on Roger Craig's nifty four-hitter and Junior Gilliam's four RBIs; and Philadelphia, which edged the New York Giants 2-1 on a bases-loaded single by Del Ennis in the 10th.

The Chicago Cubs whacked Cincinnati 12-1 in the other game behind a four-hitter by Sam Jones. In the American, Mickey Mantle drove in four runs as the New York Yankees walloped Boston's Red Sox 7-1; the Chicago White Sox remained unbeaten and in first place by beating Kansas City 6-3 as Ron Northey triggered a three-run ninth with a pinch, two-run homer; Cleveland won its first, beating Detroit 3-1 behind Early Wynn's five-hitter; and Baltimore gained its first victory with Gus Triandos' two-run homer that beat Washington 3-2.

Milwaukee homers came off starter Tom Poholsky, the big right-hander who gave up 26 gopher balls last season. Reliever Stu Miller was the loser, however, on Bobby Thomson's sacrifice fly that scored Mathews with an unearned winning marker in the eighth.

Local Traffic Authorities Renew Efforts To Make Area Safe

Expert Warns Theories Given Over-Emphasis

Five-Point Program Being Recommended To Correct Situation

With Pickaway County having recorded its third traffic fatality of the year, local authorities are renewing their efforts to make the county safer.

Although the three deaths in 1956 is far behind the eight at this date last year, the Pickaway County Traffic Safety Committee still does not consider this too much of an improvement. As one spokesman put it, "Until we get the death toll down to none our work is still cut out for us."

However, accident prevention enthusiasts are being warned not to give so much attention to technicalities and theories. One safety expert cautions that some traffic safety organizations have lost sight of their first responsibility — the quick and substantial reduction of the present accident toll and continuing improvement into the future.

Although fatalities have reached a level here, accidents continue to increase. Last year, the county set a new area record for injuries and mishaps.

THE SAFETY EXPERT, not long ago, proposed a five-point plan for achieving greater safety on the highways: (1) an accurate analysis of traffic accident conditions; (2) the adoption in each state of uniform traffic laws and regulations; (3) strict law enforcement; (4) better court handling of traffic cases and (5) more and better roads.

Citing firm reasons for these points, he declared:

"Let's stop kidding ourselves about the enormity of the traffic accident problem. Both private and public accident prevention organizations and agencies come out, month after month and year after year, with the sickening news that more people than ever were killed and injured, but — it was the safest year ever because motor vehicles were being driven more miles than ever. That is whitewashing a tragic national disgrace.

"In the first place, it presupposes that we have a reasonable norm upon which to base such ratios. We do not. In the second place, we do not know the complete dimensions of the traffic accident record. Therefore, we have no basis whatever upon which to establish ratios accurately; and to relate one shocking record to another shocking record is pure deception and a dis-service to the public.

"I recommend, as a step toward a real and lasting solution of the traffic accident problem, the prompt adoption of a uniform accident reporting system and the maintenance of accurate records by every state. I recommend further, that a central agency be designated to which accident statistics — including injuries and property damage, as well as fatalities — shall be sent daily, to the end that the American people may be informed each and every week about the true extent of their traffic accident problem.

"I AM NOT suggesting the creation of a new federal agency. While announcement of each week's record would be made simultaneously at both the national and state levels, perhaps the best results would be obtained by turning the national compilation over to a quasi-official organization rather than a public agency.

"Let's get realistic about traffic laws and regulations. There are three areas in this field where great improvement is particularly needed. They are: (a) the licensing of new drivers and the re-licensing of present drivers; (b) speed limits based on the ability of the driver rather than the vehicle; and (c) uniformity of basic laws in all of the states.

"The need for firm and adequate first examinations is obvious; there is equal need, however, for re-examination of all drivers at least every three years, based perhaps on the anniversary date of the last license. And I unequivocally recommend, immediate re-examination under any of the following circumstances: upon conviction of a serious law violation, such as speeding, reckless driving, drunken driving, or a felony; upon involvement in an accident in which a person is killed or injured, or property damage exceeds $100; or upon involvement in a third accident, regardless of the damage involved.

"Speed control is one of the most serious problems before us. What is a safe speed? The only sound answer is, a rate that the average driver is capable of handling when he or she is confronted suddenly by an emergency. We know that 50 miles per hour is safe, but diminishes as conditions get worse. I recommend that safe speeds under all conditions be established and posted. Then we shall have a decent basis for punishing violators and will provide sound protection for everyone.

"There is no uniformity of traffic laws. Only one state has adopted the Uniform Vehicle Code. Yet, motor vehicle traffic is strictly an interstate business these days. The Uniform Vehicle Code should be adopted by all of the states.

"LET'S HAVE strict enforcement of our traffic laws and regulations. Nothing breeds contempt and disregard for law so quickly as public knowledge that enforcement is non-existent or timid. Effective enforcement means, first, enough policemen on full-time road duty to let every motorist know that his chances of getting away with a violation are too small even to be considered. A second must be that police be equipped with modern means of detecting traffic law violations, such as radar, unmarked police cars and tests for drunken drivers.

"To those who say unmarked police cars are not right, I answer that we then should also put detectives back in uniform and let crime inherit the earth. And if alcoholic tests are unconstitutional, so is finger-printing.

"Let's have more realistic court handling of traffic cases. A lenient judge can do more to undermine efficient enforcement of traffic laws than any other individual or group of individuals, unless it be a group of lenient judges. He not only destroys police morale, but he also invites motorists to disobey the law by letting them know that, if they are arrested, they will get a tap on the wrist, at most. Certainly a judge must require proof of guilt, but once that is established the punishment should fit the crime.

"I recommend that careful consideration be given to fixing definite forms of punishment for those who are convicted of the kinds of violations that endanger life, limb and property. The minimum should be suspension of a driver's license for a substantial period of time — with restoration of such driving privilege at an earlier date specifically and unequivocally forbidden. Coupled with this should be revocation of license, heavy fines, and jail sentences for the more serious and flagrant cases.

"Let's have more and better roads. However, nothing is truer than the statement that you can build safety into a road; but, if you do not, at the same time, build safety into the drivers who use those roads, they will find new ways of killing themselves and other people, too.

"SO I SAY, let's have more and better roads, but let's not kid ourselves and the public by thinking they will be any safer than the average road unless we establish safety rules designed to fit them and provide the means of firmly requiring driver compliance. In other words, let's build safety into the drivers, as well as the roads.

"I submit that every group in the nation has an equal stake in the problem of traffic accidents. The worker killed or injured on the highway is as direct a loss to his employer as though he had been killed in the plant or office. The minimum cost of traffic accidents is a direct tax on every man, woman and child in this country. Your pocketbook is in the middle, not to mention your life and limb.

"When the people are made to understand this fact, traffic safety will not be far behind. But it will not be accomplished by inaccurate statistics, by antiquated laws, by inadequate or timid enforcement, by lenient courts, or by telling the people that safe roads will make safe drivers."

Grow-little pigs-grow...

Young pigs will grow and grow as pigs never grew before if they are fed

NEW Red Rose PIG STARTER PELLETS

Creep feed these vitamin packed pellets to young pigs at 5 days of age. Your pigs will reach early weaning at 4 to 5 weeks, maintain rapid growth — and soon be on their profit way to pork chops.

RED ROSE PIG STARTER PELLETS help to grow young pigs in a hurry for this reason: they supplement the sow's milk, and supply additional vitamins and antibiotics which permit the litter to be weaned earlier without setbacks in growth. The high antibiotics and vitamin levels in RED ROSE PIG STARTER PELLETS help prevent scouring, insure against anemia and develop vigor.

Pigs fed RED ROSE PIG STARTER PELLETS grow more uniformly and reach market weights earlier. So, feed these pellets to your pigs. Remember, better pork profits come from better early feeding.

Machines Slated To Do Own Talking

CINCINNATI (AP)—The president of the Bell Telephone laboratories in New York predicted yesterday that some day there will be machines which talk to machines in the same manner that people now talk to each other by telephone.

Dr. Mervin J. Kelly made the prediction as he appeared at a University of Cincinnati panel discussion on "America's Future Scientists, Engineers and Managers."

Dr. Kelly asserted that Americans need not fear automation. He said it would be beneficial economically and socially and called it "a growing economic and social force whose significance can be larger than mechanization."

Although golden eagles often migrate, some birds remain constantly in the same territory.
